Dear John:

I wanted to take this opportunity to thank you for speaking at last week's volunteer training; based upon our participant evaluations, it was evident you were the hit of the two day event.

Your demeanor and story engaged our audience immediately and I believe all came away with some new techniques to help prevent identity theft. Your style was refreshing and many of our volunteers inquired about you speaking to their community groups.

I would highly recommend you to any of AARP's staff and/or external partners I work with who are looking for a new, innovative way of addressing the problem of identity theft.

Again, thank you.

Regards,
